photo journal

I'd guess that almost everyone reading this carries a camera with them everywhere - your phone!

I use mine frequently and often regret that I didn't use a film camera in the past as often as I use my phone camera. Of course, it helps that I don't have to pay each time I click my phone.

I've been known to opt for my phone while carrying my "real" camera for photos I want but don't need a 21 mp image. I came home from a vacation in the Austin area with hundreds of phone photos.

Get in the habit of using your phone regularly - anytime you see something interesting, grab a photo. You'll end up with an interesting assortment of images at the end of the year and great reminders of day-to-day events.

I take photos of cool bumperstickers, inside of restaurants, street scenes from the passenger side of the car

second saturday for kids

Four times a year, several Orr Street Studio artists put together activities for kids. Join us at Orr Street Studios between noon and 3 pm on Saturday, July 14th.

Activities include making moth kites, paper-mache carrots and puppets.

videos of clark little

Some of you may remember that I've mentioned Clark Little before - he takes amazing wave photographs. In case you missed it, take a look at <http://www.clarklittlephotography.com/>

I recently viewed several videos showing him making images (and getting tossed around) in the surf on the North Shore of Hawaii.

The first National Moth Week is scheduled for July 23rd through the 29th. Most people are unaware of the diversity of moths and probably can't list the common names of even a handful of species. Here's your opportunity to change that!
